Tulsa, Oklahoma

1. Senioritis has gotten to Brad Beam and Trevor Hulse. They aren't sure which way is up. 2. The run through sign at Jenks says it all. 3. Billy Cherry drenches the floor in an attempt to bob for apples during an October pep assembly. 4. Mrs. Payne pins a corsage on head cheerleader Charise Hines in celebration of the squad's making it to the national cheerleading competition in Dallas. The girls took sixth in the nation. 5. Waving the Renegades on to victory is Junior Mark Anderson. 6. Ines Westphal agonizes over an essay in Mr. Weaver's class.

A Season of Hits . . .

a handful of fun

To everything there is a season . . .

Summer flames into fall; fall fades into winter; winter melts into spring; spring blossoms into summer. The cycle is complete.

So our lives are a cycle; each year is different, yet the same. There is football every fall and Christmas is every winter. The prom is always in spring, and summer is a time to forget school for a little while. Distinct seasons, separate experiences, yet all blended together to where it's difficult to separate one year from the next.

This was a season of hits. Prince and Purple Rain topped the charts and Ghostbusters broke box office records. Eddie Murphy was the hot name in Hollywood but Bruce Springsteen was still the boss.

Closer to home, from the football championship that almost was to a campus that is almost complete, we faced our disappointments with dignity and accepted our honors with pride. We completed our cycle and when the class of '85 made way for the class of '86, it was the good times we remembered — the joys we shared together, individually and as a group; a season of hope for the future.

A Season of Ticklish Situations

worth a 1,000 words

1. The Florafax Company used Brian Prince, Tony Snoddy, Scott Waner, Tim Gray, Mike Abdo, Brian Grief, and Brad Beam for a Valentine's Day promotional poster. The poster received nationwide distribution. 2. Kim Herron boogies down to the jungle music of the band during a football game. 3. Juniors Renee Snider, Lisa Gilbert, and Krista Farrier try to out yell the Seniors. 4. Darin Pounds appears to enjoy singing to Seniors. 5. Cassie Wells expresses her personal opinion of school in general. 6. David Ellis has only one ambition in life — to become Mr. Universe.

A Season of Togetherness

the magic lasts forever

For some, school is strictly business. Arrive, go to class, do work, go home. But for most, the social scene is far more important than the academic world. Let's face it, the only reason some people go to school is to see their friends. After all, some of the best relationships start out at school.

Nothing in this world is better than a good friend. When things don't go just right, and in high school they often don't, a friend will be there. These comradeships may last a lifetime; graduation from school doesn't break the close bond formed by good friends. Teachers even get involved. They get attached to a student as a sophomore and cry as they graduate as a senior.

Endless soap operas dominate the school social scene. Sophomores and juniors switch loves approximately every other week. Seniors tend to engage in more stable relationships, or they chose to stay free their entire last year of high school to play the field.

When the month of May rolls around, it brings on excitement and fright. Regardless of future plans, a comforting thought always remains constant. Precious moments and dear friends will never fade from memory.

1. Inseparables Susie Shock and Rick Vaughan enthusiastically watch a Junior Varsity football game. 2. Scott Coleman tries in vain to convince buddies Tim Gray and Brian Prince that Nebraska has offered him a full four year ride. 3. Shay Braun takes a moment with Karla Armstrong to share a smile. 4. With her arm draped around Mike Gibson, Tracy Moore waves a big hello. Also in on the celebration of a Redskin victory are Christine Jones and Dana Seeber. 5. Celane Cahill and Tami Pippin boo at the sophomores attempt to sing. Surprisingly enough, Pat Kinney's side kick Shellev Phillips isn't with him. 6. The Absolutely Adorable award goes to couple Shawna Hodges and William Wilkerson. 7. Steve Ellig and Michael O'Neill take a break from squabbling to share a tender kiss.

A Season of Getting Around we're on the move

Need a way to get to school? No problem; students at Union use several different methods to get to and from campus. Most use one of the following types of transportation.

The School Bus: Used mainly by those too young to drive, these giant yellow vehicles will stop at nothing to get to school before 8:00. Busses aren't as prestigious as driving one's own car, but they do provide students with a chance to make new friends, travel through scenic Tulsa, and get nasty cuts and bruises from the bumpy ride. Driven by a highly specialized team of professionals, (students swear that the drivers can be found as drill sergeants at Fort Sill), a ride on a school bus is always memorable. Said one student, "It was a living nightmare."

Walking: Some students walk to school through rain, snow, sleet, or hail (and usually, they arrive smelling like rain, snow, sleet, or hail). Definitely the outdoor type, these brave individuals hike to school each morning and sadly, are victimized by the students in cars who race by and throw food at them. Those who walk must always remember to bring a compass, because the school can be hard to find in the jungles and barren wastelands that surround it.

The Automobile: Although drivers like to see how fast their car can go in the parking lot without hitting anyone, "safety first" is the motto of all students. Leaving the parking lot during lunch and after school can be dangerous because everyone wants to be the first out, but the speedbumps stop any car from moving over two miles an hour. Many of the cars here are three times as old as their owners; it's always fun to find out if twenty students can fit in Grandma's Chevy. All car owners are proud of their autos and spend hundreds of dollars on repair. After racing back and forth to lunch for a few weeks, the same owners end up paying thousands of dollars on car repair. No wonder driving to school is so popular!

Whether one's favorite transportation is any of the above, or bicycle, horse, or camel, getting to school each day is a unique experience to be always remembered (but hopefully soon forgotten).

1. Billy Hickman converts his car into a double decker bus to take Amy Rhodes, Kim Mays, David SanMiguel, Par Senter, Mike Wise, Michelle Conway, Andrea Thacker, and Kristen Durbin to lunch. 2. A group of sophomores load a familiar yellow bus. 3. Katina Foster takes a chilly walk to the bus stop. 4. Par Rhees tries to get his jeep in reverse. The jeep itself is a legend in its own time. 5. Angie Pendergrass and Sidney Arrington pack up after school with tag-a-long brother Bobby Pendergrass.

A Season of Great Taste

that touch of flavor goes everywhere

"Eat, drink and be merry," seemed to be the motto of many students this year. The fine art of gorging was practiced not only during lunchtime, but during classtime too; club sponsored parties were held constantly, and cook-days were a regularity in several classes.

Organizational parties are educational get-togethers where every member brings a dish. Usually, everyone brings the same casserole, and the rest of the party is spent in the bathroom. One can always tell that it's cook-day when all the sophomores wear their oven mitts to school. The meals prepared are eaten, but the next day half of the students get some rare food poisoning disease.

During the lunch hour (Why do they call it lunch hour when it's only 30 minutes?), the cafeteria staff is faced with the task of feeding hundreds of starving students. Every day, hoards of ravaged pupils storm the cafeteria looking for a scrap of food. Sadly, three cafeteria employees were recently trampled to death in the confusion. This year, riot patrols were sent to the cafeteria to pacify the crowd with gummy bears.

Despite these little drawbacks, the commissary is world-famous for its cuisine, and a regular supplier of pizza burgers to Ethiopia.

Many students leave campus at lunchtime in search of food that is not 90% soybean. Fast food restaurants are usually packed with hunger stricken students, who always remember to eat a well balanced diet consisting of the four food groups. Nutrition is important to the student body; favorites include bologna McNuggets and tuna fish pudding.

Is it any wonder that food is the most important part of a student's life?

1. Kristy Males takes the Family Living taste test. Peanut butter A isn't to her liking. 2. Mild mannered Brian Grief certainly isn't shy about the way he eats his dinner. 3. Dawn Fortney still thinks Mickey Dee's has the best shakes in town. 4. Gourmet chef Mr. Brad Burnham, makes a guest appearance in the single survival class. Here, he demonstrates making barbeque cups. 5. Babies need formula and sophomores need milk, so Greg Owens makes sure he gets his daily quota in the cafeteria.

A Season of Reality

1. Carey Adams prepares a bacon cheeseburger at Flakey Jakes. 2. Filling orders for pop at Taco Spot are Kyle Rhodes and Mike Wise. 3. Many students have found employment at Target. Here, Leslie Stewart checks out a customer. 4. Gifts III keeps Andrea Setser busy stocking shelves. 5. Stacy Cheatham peddles athletic footwear at the Footlocker in the Mall.

leads to endless possibilities

From cooking burgers to selling records, a part-time job is a vital portion of a student's existence. The fast-paced, sleazy world of shopping malls, supermarkets, and restaurants is a second home to many students. Typical jobs include cleaning tables, washing dishes, delivering pizza, or selling clothes. But then there's always those weirdo students who work in morgues, sanitariums, and butcher shops.

Most students have some type of part-time job. Advantages include extra spending money (always spent on school supplies, of course), and the opportunity to meet exciting new people (people like some guy named Merv who's flipped hamburgers all his life). Disadvantages of work are the dopey uniforms (usually consist of a polka-dotted shirt, a plaid paper hat, a bow tie, and a nametag that says, "Hi there! I'd just love to help you!").

Another horrible side-effect of a part-time job is when pupils bring their work to school with them; several students can be seen quickly stuffing their books in a brown paper bag, indicating that they're honor students by day and Skaggs sackers by night.

But always remember — it's not the money that's important. Every working student feels that the valuable skills and talents taught in jobs are well worth the time and effort. Who knows what the future holds for these enterprising individuals? Perhaps the pizza boys and dishwashers of today will grow up to become the doctors and lawyers, or more likely, the pizza boys and dishwashers of tomorrow.

1. Senior Darrin Johnston takes a swing at a car while Terry Harrell watches. The baseball team sponsored the car bash during Homecoming Week to help finance their Spring Break trip to Florida. 2. Two year starter Billy Goombi stops for the pause that refreshes during the "mud bowl" with Sand Springs. 3. Football Homecoming Queen Susie Moore flashes a beautiful smile after she's been crowned. 4. Dressed in her national plumage for Senior Pride Week is Ester Kane. Ester is from Korea. 5. Robyn Crabtree, Bruce Dieterlen, and Pat Kinney are typical Joe Kools. 6. The alive class of '85 gathers on the gym floor to celebrate their spirit.

A Season of Excitement

everything you could ask for

Tingles run down your spine from all the energy that our school expels. Most of the time spirit is associated with sports, but spirit really applies to everything.

It rings through the halls from the Vocal Department.

It splashes from the puddle that always forms on the walkway after it rains.

It hammers from the construction men that keep on adding more halls for everyone to get lost in.

It roams nauseously in the Science wing from dissecting cats.

It drips from every couple that participates in public displays of affection.

It yawns through the air during all of those early 7:30 organizational meetings.

It shakes around the entire gym when everyone does "THE WAVE."

It even shocks us for being tardy seven times and getting suspended for two days.

Spirit pours from everybody, (awake or not) no matter who you are, where you came from, where you are now, or where you are going.

There Is No Substitute

The hitting of pads, the grinding of teeth, and the sweating of bodies began long before the actual football season. These grueling practices are fondly known as 2-a-days. But the vigorous workouts in the sweltering August heat turned out to be worth it all. The Renegades rolled over the Hornets of Washington to win their first ever "All City Title." Winning the prestigious preseason tournament left the Renegades hungry for more.

They got it. Shutting out Jenks 17-0 was the highlight of this explosive 9-1 season. By the end of September the whispering chant of "Take State" could be heard all over campus. By October, it was a roar.

The team opened the playoffs by defeating

Rogers. The Renegades climbed the ladder to reach the semi-finals, the "Final Four" of high school 5A football. What a match up this would be! The Renegades were scheduled to play their old nemesis, the Washington Hornets. Both teams had been number 1 and 2 in the rankings all year. It may have been only a semifinal game; but to Tulsa fans, this one was for the championship.

Spirit was high all week. At the pep assembly before the game, Mr. Irvin made a rousing speech. He said "If you want to get it, you've got to want it." The Renegades wanted it, but the excellent Horner offense proved to be unstoppable.

When it was over, although the Renegades had lost on the scoreboard, they had won in the hearts of their fans. Tears mixed with sweat as the team that had come so far together left the field together for the last time. Even in the face of defeat, the players held their heads high and showed they had not lost their pride.

The team was honored by being named All Conference Co-Champs. In addition, five individuals received scholarships. Left Tackle Scott Waner, Running backs Keith Pearson and William Wilkerson were chosen by Central Missouri State. Defensive tackle Tim Gray was selected by Southwest Missouri State, and the University of Tulsa took on Quarterback Mitch Payne.

Opposite) Billy Cherry and Tony Snoddy maul their opponent with the Union crunch. Unable to halt Union's offense, Sapulpa is crushed by the destructive power of Keith Pearson and Brian Grief.

to where taste runs rich

Homecoming week started out with the traditional dress up days. As Monday rolled around, the school was overrun with more than the usual nerds. Tuesday was marked with anything historic, and everyone wore their Sunday best on Wednesday. Red and white was the theme for Thursday. The queen was crowned in the auditorium. The alive class of '85 won the spirit link contest, and the jammin' juniors won the spirit wall contest. The students lucked out and didn't have to go to school Friday, but the teachers did.

The game was against the Edison Eagles. The Pep Squad ran around selling balloons and ribbons. Finally the game began. The boys looked a little shaky in the first quarter, but by half-time things were looking up.

The band and drill team performed during half-time as the attendants paraded around the field in a Porsche, Corvette, and ancient T-Bird. The girls' fathers and even a brother escorted the lovely ladies. They cheered their team on to victory from the north endzone hoping not to get hit by the ball.

Post-game activities started with the colorguard performing and then it was on to the Commons for a dance to celebrate. The dance was a rare opportunity to see Mr. Williams do the two-step with his wife.

The cheerleaders were something to brag about in 1985. As well as providing ample entertainment and spirit boosters at the pep rallies, the cheerleaders worked throughout the year on a five minute routine for various competitions. They competed at the Tulsa State Fair Cheerleading Contest against Tulsa Metro area schools, and took first in the 5A division. They went on to Regionals in Norman where they qualified for National competition. The Varsity squad placed sixth in the National competition against 95 other squads from around the country. The Junior Varsity squad competed in a UCA sponsored contest in Edmond, Oklahoma.

Tracy McDonough and Julie Pestinger were nominated for All-American Cheerleaders at NCA summer camp. Julie went on to try out and qualify for the All-American squad that cheered in the Hula Bowl in Hawaii.

What the fight is really about

Tuesday and Thursday nights were filled by going to the J.V. games. This team served as a backup to the Varsity. They definitely had the strength and ability to do the job. They were only beaten by two Varsity teams. Seven Junior Varsity players played at least twenty quarters in Varsity games to letter. They were: Shawn Bowman, Chris Cabiness, Mike Cook, Steve Ellig, Jimmy Murray, Brad Poindexter, and David Salyer. Sophomore Mike Wise did also. Juniors Billy Goombi, Tommy Keitges, and Joe Stagg engaged in Varsity play for the entire season. Once again the Renegades proved to be champs.

Uneasy Riders

Deadly traffic on the field

Varsity and Junior Varsity weren't the only teams that underwent grueling practices. The Sophomore team held their own through two-a-days. Their work paid off in the first game against Bartlesville. They won 19-7. As the season came to a close the team had won 7 out of their 10 games. Although Sophomores are usually thought of as low men on the totem pole, these guys knew what they wanted, worked for it, and got it!

Across the miles

The cross country team performed well over the past season of 1984-1985. The five kilometre races that they competed in took endurance and a lot of practice. This was the first year for Coach Keith Eidson, and he supported the team with encouragement and advice. The sport and the runners do not get as much recognition as they deserve, but Todd Krier and Mark Allen changed that. Mark took first in conference and seventh in state, showing the leadership that was needed to give the team a boost.

1. Brian Cee runs hard to make it to the finish line first. 2. Team unity is very important, as Eimile Ryan, Jamie Bollinger, and Shawna Hodges show.

The Lasting Impressions

On February 15th the band's annual concert was held in the auditorium. The festivities following the concert were to be the highlight of the evening. The band queen was to be crowned. As the attendants and their escorts filed in, the audience was so quiet you could hear a pin drop. The only noise was the voice of announcer Greg Fahrenbach. At last the entire court was on stage. As in all royalty courts, the flower girl and crown bearer proved to be a special delight. The little boy dropped the crown and the little girl kept lifting up her dress for everyone to see. As Bryan Kane crowned and kissed Lisa Hurley the two little people followed suit and kissed each other. The bright flashes of cameras brought the evening to an end, but it would always be a special remembrance for the entire court.

Seriously dedicated to get the job done

Another outstanding year passed for the marching and concert band. During the first semester, the marching band competed in some very tough competitions that were both local and national. In their first competition, the Port City Classic in Catoosa, the regiment placed 2nd. The regiment also placed 2nd at the Renegade Review, which was hosted by Union. Next the band performed at O.U. stadium for O.B.A., an Oklahoma competition, and placed 3rd. After these local competitions, the regiment competed in two national ones. First, the regiment performed at the M.B.A. Regionals in Dallas, where they placed 7th. Then, the regiment went by bus all the way to the M.B.A. Fall Nationals in Indianapolis, Indiana. The band placed in the top 25, for which the regiment received a plaque as well as certificates for each band and guard member. During the first semester, the band also attended a Regional Marching Contest held at the University of Tulsa stadium. The regiment received a one, a superior rating. To make for an even higher schedule, the band performed at all but one of the football games.

A flash of color adds dash to the Marching Band

The swishing of bright colored flags and the slapping of wooden rifles could be heard during the football halftime performances. No, the band was not having a semi-major war. These familiar sounds were contributed by the color-guard. As an auxiliary unit to the Renegade Regiment the girls competed at various contests. The guard took fourth place at the State Championship. They made a clean sweep at regionals in Fort Worth, Texas by receiving Outstanding Rifles, Flags and Auxiliary Unit. Traveling on to Indiana, they received 7th place.

The group put in long hours and hot practices to accomplish their goals. Robyn Crabtree replied "I always would get so excited and smile when I caught my four (the rifle spins 4 times in the air)."

The team's officers began the award winning year by winning three awards at officer camp in Norman, Oklahoma. These were — a Creative Night Award, a Spirit Award, and a Sweepstakes Award. From there, the teamwork really began! Team camp, held at NSU, was just the beginning. Here, the team received three awards; Most Admired Team, Creative Night Award, and the Sweepstakes Award. The team then returned home to show the Redskin fans that they have what it takes. They did have what it took! At both the Arkansas-Oklahoma Competition and the Oklahoma State Competition the team took first place in the category of Highkick. They also received Sweepstakes trophies at both. The officers also took first with their dance routine at Arkansas.

At each of the competitions an Individual competition was held. Among the finalists at Arkansas was Alison Chinn. Karann Brandt won the title of Miss Arkansas-Oklahoma. At the Oklahoma State Individual Competition Alison Chinn, Lisa Howard, Karann Brandt, and Leigh Stewart made finals. Leigh Stewart recaptured her title of Miss Oklahoma for the second year in a row.

Making the bucks

Vocational programs provide students with the opportunity to work and receive school credit. DECA Sponsor Pam Wallace and VICA Sponsor Carol Lavendusky work with employers to locate jobs for students and then follow them through the course of their employment. Students have opportunities during the year to demonstrate leadership and management skills at various local, state and national contests. The groups also participate in various community service projects, such as helping senior citizens Christmas shop at Target and escorting Hissom students to the state fair.

Believe and succeed

This year FBLA had 65 members. At Christmas they sold ornaments, which was a successful fund raiser. They also had a Christmas party. In February, they had an annual Blood Drive through the Red Cross with 70 successful donors. In March, they went to the State Leadership Conference in Oklahoma City with 7 out of 10 in the state of Oklahoma in various competitive events. Those who took places were: Don Curry — Business Law — 10th place, Bruce Marsh — Mr. FBLA — 8th place, Angie Bowker — Ms. FBLA — 8th place, Susanne Mason — Word Processing/Machine Transcription — 8th place, Kay Chisholm — Typing II — 5th place, Jim Rexroat — Accounting II — 3rd place, and Chris Otte — Accounting I — 3rd place.

Service is our business

Red Cross is a local youth organization devoted to community service. The chapter here, sponsored by nurse Eydie Leeds, received three or four humanitarian service awards this year. Among their many projects were filling 200 Christmas stockings for needy children and sponsoring a canned food drive. Members attend meetings at the local and district level. As a fairly young group, Red Cross is fast becoming a top organization.

All in the family

A singular sensation

Once again the largest school organization, Big Family provided students with the chance to help others and at the same time enjoy themselves. As always, this branch of Future Homemakers of America provided company and support to youngsters at the Children's Medical Center. Other beneficial services included the creation of anti-drunk-driving commercials; members wrote, produced, and starred in two T.V. advertisements that showed the dangers of drinking and driving. Both commercials were allowed extensive air time, giving Big Family the local recognition it deserves.

The fun enjoyed by Big Family members accounts for the success and popularity of the group. Activities such as the Football Spirit Breakfast, the hayride, and annual powder puff game were the students' favorites. Another favorite was the "Jungle Love" banquet where members donned jungle attire and were entertained by hypnotist Richard Delafont. Highlights included Dr. Delafont's spell on Travis Hulse, who was hypnotized into performing a snazzy version of "California Girls."

Vada Gullett and Heather Hawkins take under the cup notist's spell.

1. Senior team running back Charise Hines explains plays as Christine Jones listens intently. 2. There is no doubt that the powder-puff game was permanently recorded on file as Tracy McDonough, Sheri Adams, Michelle Magid, Michaela O'Neill, Kristy Duffy and Jill Onstott snap their shutters. 3. Kendall Hopkins was one of the most attractive powder-puff cheerleaders that cheered the Big Family Team.

Females with lots of clout

Nothing faster on two feet

Once again girls tried to enter a boys' game! Not only did they try, but they succeeded. The annual Powder Puff game was a smash between Big Family and the Juniors. Although it was only flag football, the girls got a little rough. A few sneak tackles could be seen from the sidelines.

Halftime was a treat. Dana Seeber crowned Billy Cherry King and topped it off with a deep dip and a kiss.

Play resumed and ended with the Juniors being the victors. A few hard feelings resulted, but for the most part, the girls just had tremendous fun playing a guys' game.

1. A tradition and a comedy act, the game would not be complete without support of the cheerleaders. Here Juniors Darryl Clark, Kyle Rhodes and Pat Rhees start up the Union train. 2. DeAngelo Williams coaches Lori McClain and Sherry Hacker on the snap. 3. Jamie Bollinger races to the goal as Vender Walston guards and Kay Chisholm pursues her.

Nerves are on edge In the Spotlight

The Musical is definitely not the only production that the Drama Department does. They managed to work two other fantastic plays in to their busy schedule. Ten Little Indians was an eerie mystery with puzzling suspense. The cast tried Passionella out on all of the English classes and took it to competition for raving reviews.

The UPAC is a great asset to the school and our future actors and actresses. The drama class has made it more than just a place to have assemblies.

1. Eric Pugh and Tracy Lilleskau perform with the intensity of true Broadway actors. 2. Admirers of the beautiful Passionella truck across stage in pursuit of her. 3. The scene is set in Ten Little Indians as another Indian is missing from the shelf. 4. The metamorphosis of a poor chimney sweep to the beautiful Passionella is performed by Amy Wilson. 5. The role of Passionella must have been especially for Tracy Lilleskau.

An ominous tremor on the mat

causes a takedown for 2

Takedown, Takedown — 2-2, echoes through the gym with the beat of hands on the mat. The crowd roars as he puts him on his back. Only 5 seconds left, everybody is screaming. Finally, the referee slaps the mat indicating a pin!

Wrestling is often viewed as an individual sport. Actually it took all 13 guys to make up one fantastic team. Each wrestler contributed certain characteristics and strenuous workouts that made the team good. At 101 Mark Blue did extremely well. Scott Loud, an inspiring freshman, wrestled at 108. Since Mark and Scott were practically inseparable they were dubbed Papa Smurf and Baby Smurf. Scott Johnson,

Billy Pierce, and occasionally Kip Ewing switched around at 115 and 123. Butch Gay managed to get away from his mom long enough to do a fantastic job at 130. Unfortunately he suffered a back injury at the Geary Tournament and later Mike Gibson filled in beautifully. Keith Kapple and Steve Hart traded off at 136. After basically starving himself down to 136, Junior Darryl Clark lighted at 148 taking 3rd place at state. Senior Billy Cherry jammed at 141. The 157 class was held by none other than 2 time State Champion Baron Blakely. A real improvement was made by Senior Mike Roberts at 168. Steve Ellig and Bobby Ferreira wrestled at 178 and 190. Steve lived in constant fear of having to get his precious auburn curls cut off. Unfortunately Bobby acquired a knee injury. Mike Skates and Steve Rob filled the gap. Last and definitely the biggest was Billy Goombi at Heavyweight. Billy finally put his mind to winning and placed 4th at State.

So many talented wrestlers were available that a Junior Varsity or B-team competed. They did well and always provided excellent back up for the Varsity Team.

New Coach Tim Johnson pulled the guys together, put them through dripping with sweat practices, yelled at them when they weren't giving it their all, and managed to be a big brother all at the same time.

Billy "The Chief" Goombi tries to take down the 395 lb. blob from Perry. Billy went on to take 2nd place at the Geary tournament.

Once in a lifetime savor the magic

Keeping with tradition the wrestling court was a little different. It lacked another Senior attendant, but the four girls chosen had no problem filling the gap. The official coronation was held in the auditorium. At the match the girls were escorted across the gym floor. Baron Blakley and Mike Gibson trailed behind with a gorilla on their arms. This gorilla was the team mascot and he was dubbed "Sampson."

Broken Arrow, one of our arch rivals, was the opponent for the evening. The night promised to be very exciting, especially since Mr. Williams' son, Danny, would be wrestling at 178 pounds for Broken Arrow. As it turned out he only beat Mike Roberts by one point. Billy Goombi at heavyweight had the job of deciding the team victory. The crowd was the biggest of the season and they were pumped full of energy. The gym echoed with the chant of "head-lock, head-lock." The final score was 24-27 in favor of Broken Arrow. It was really a high instead of a low because the guys gave it their all!

Turn him over

Let him see the light

The beating of hands and the chanting of voices clearly mark the wrestling cheerleaders. Going from match to match, it was quite evident that the girls were the best. Other team's cheerleaders couldn't compete. Not only did they cheer, but they were ample supporters of the team. The annual breakfast at 6:00 am was a special treat done in conjunction with the Mat Maids. The team certainly had plenty of female companionship.

1. Renae Snider gives a big smile at the first assembly for wrestling. 2. Christine Jones and Dana Seeber peek through the door awaiting their cue to go for the coronation. 3. Sampson, the gorilla mascot, helps Marcie Coop and Deanna Birchim cheer.

M&M's provide sweet things

"Go Stud-muffin" shout three harmonious voices. None other than the Mat Maids were responsible for this strange outburst. The girls formed a real group for the season. They helped the coaches, learned how to do those wonderful stats, and did special treats for all of the wrestlers. Balloons were given to them at the Union Classic, and Regionals were finished with pies from Pippins. The girls had a lot of fun traveling to all of the matches. Fond memories will be held by everyone for the fantastic season.

1. As usual, Kristin Bischoff and Karrie Harris could be found goofing around. 2. A disgusted look crosses Michaela O'Neill's face as she watches a bloody wrestler walk by her.

Building a season of Pride

It's a great way to win

The Varsity basketball team rallied under the direction and guidance of new head coach Mark Dobbins. The spirit of working together was evident time after time, especially in such instances as last second winning shots against Bartlesville and East Central. In one of these spectacular plays, senior Marc Hamilton intercepted a pass from a Bruin forward, then held it until he made the winning bucket at the buzzer.

The team felt their unity was due to the support and personal attention not only of Coach Dobbins, but of assistant coaches Kelly Clarke and Jack Dobbins.

The efforts of the roundballers were rewarded when senior Sid Bircham and junior Mark Thompson were named to the All-Conference team. Seniors Pat Kinney and Marc Hamilton received All-Conference Honorable Mention.

Although basketball is not traditionally a strong sport at Union, these dedicated players never gave up. They gave their all every game and pushed basketball one step closer to earning the respect it deserves.

Sid Bircham leaps for the winning points as fellow teammate Pat Kinney and Sapulpa players watch in astonishment.

Mark Thompson glides by Sapulpa players showing who is really in charge.

Room to grow

With only three juniors on the junior varsity team, the sophomores had to meet some tough challenges. Every time they played, their opponents would be older and more experienced. But despite the obstacle of being young and inexperienced, the team learned to work well together and gave 100% at every game. With the playing and leadership experience they have gained this year, the J.V. roundballers look forward to being a challenge to every opponent next season.

Automatic choice

When a girl is chosen to represent a team as their queen or attendant, it is not always taken into consideration how much effort she has put forth for the good of the team. When it comes to basketball royalty, this is never a problem. The most skilled team members are chosen to be attendants.

In an ideal homecoming game the boys team carried the Redskins on to victory by a near margin, 52-51, over Sapulpa. The girls weren't victorious, but did a great job.

Like all of the royalty groups the queen was officially crowned in the auditorium. As the procession of the queen and her attendants filed into the gym, a Senior attendant was missing. Natalie Edmund was visiting South Carolina University and couldn't be present for the coronation or game.

Senior Attendant — Natalie Edmund

Senior Attendant — Susan Schock

Shooting for Success

The Lady Redskins had a disappointing, but hard working, meaningful season. Coach Ron Evans and assistant Kelly Clarke had to work with many freshmen who were young and inexperienced, but the leadership of veteran seniors Sue Shock and Cynthia Verner was always in evidence. They assisted the coaches in pulling the team together for a challenging, building season.

Spirit is the Backbone

This School Year started with a bang as over 75 girls joined the newly formed Union Pep Squad. Under the leadership of president Laurey Bundrick, spirit was high and the excitement was great. The Union Pep Squad worked hard making posters, decorating lockers, and learning the yells to help support our victory-bound Redskin football team. For homecoming, the Pep Squad sold 500 red helium balloons which were released at the kick-off of the game. For the rest of the season, they sold Union spirit bandanas to help wave the team on to the state playoffs. The Union Pep Squad followed the football team to every home game and to all but one away game. It was a great year to be a Redskin football fan because victory was everywhere. Next year, the Union Pep Squad will be back bigger and better than ever, and the membership will be open to guys, too. Also, watch for special groups that will be formed to support Union's great basketball teams, wrestling squads and the other spring sports.

1. "Cleaning up the mess is half the fun," say sophomores Theresa Basham and Sharetta Palmer. 2. Stunned senior Shauna Hodges says "Please buy a balloon from me!"

On the court again

Court Cuties is an organization formed last year to support the basketball team; similar to mat maids in wrestling. The girls attend all of the games and encourage other students to attend. They decorated the boy's locker room and school lockers, and gave the team spirit bags full of candy. Two Court Cuties sit on the bench every home game to make sure the players have towels and water. Court cuties' main purpose is to cheer on the basketball team.

A complete metamorphosis

Winterguard is a program which only began at Union last year. It consists of 24 girls who perform with flags and rifles to various musical selections. This year's selections included the Saga Songs, "Conversations," "Wind 'Em Up," and "Ain't No Stranger." Winterguard began practicing in late November. Their schedule consists of an average of 16 hours of practice a week. Throughout the season, they competed at various contests around the nation, including Regional contests in Chicago, Dallas, and a State Championship at Union. They ended the season by performing their dynamic show in Dayton, Ohio at Winterguard Internationals. Last year the guard placed 6th in the nation. This year the goal was to win all of their regionals, and to receive 1st place at the Winterguard Nationals.

1. Brenda Davis concentrates on walking and throwing the rifle in unison. 2. It's not Invasion of the Body Snatchers, It's Union Winterguard. 3. Shawn Tuell leads the Winterguard in their tribute to the butterfly.

Good as gold

National Honor Society membership is based upon scholarship, service, leadership, and character. The goals of NHS include creating enthusiasm for scholarship, stimulating a desire to render service, and encouraging the development of character in all students at Union High School.

Some of the activities this past year include ushering for the PTSA Open House, helping set up the Arts and Crafts Fair booths, taking the North Central Committee on tour of the high school facilities, helping to organize a SADD chapter (Students Against Drunk Driving) and honoring teachers on Teacher Appreciation Week.

The NHS raised over $1600 this year and gave $1000 in local scholarships to NHS members. The membership is growing continually with 124 members first semester and an additional 90 installed in the spring.

The NHS is no longer an organization simply for those with high grade point averages. It has become a service organization made up of leaders rendering service to the school and community while demonstrating the high standards exemplified by Union students.

Alive with Pleasure

Union can be proud of its great number of Christian students. Youth Alive is just one of the organizations that promotes biblical values and desires to meet the needs of Christian students. It is a non-denominational group under the sponsorship of Mrs. Fowler and the leadership of senior Gene Phillips. They meet on Wednesdays to share their praises and prayer requests and to study the Bible.

Keeping the faith

In years past, Union's Fellowship of Christian Athletes has been a less than spiritual experience. This year, led by ORU students Trey Kent, Mary Anne Underwood, George Warren, and Brett Robinson, members of FCA gathered on a weekly basis to learn about being a Christian. Despite the name, many involved in FCA were not athletes; it was the "Fellowship" and "Christian" that were stressed. Along with Bible studies, testimonials, and guest speakers, the group participated in such games as the "Moo Game" and some attended the Imperials concert. It was fun time for everyone and the memories will not soon be forgotten. Most important, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a group of students dedicated to learn and grow in the word of God. It proved to be very meaningful for all its members in that they not only learned about Christianity but were able to share their experiences and crises with people who cared.

French Club got off to a great start this year with a fun cookout at Haikey Creek. The "getting acquainted activities" made everyone feel welcome and excited about meeting again for the next party: a scavenger hunt at Michelle Magid's house. Now that everyone felt comfortable together, the prospect of finding items (written in French, don't forget!) seemed an interesting challenge. The people in the neighborhoods really enjoyed having the French Club come caroling, French style, before Christmas. After many days of learning about French cuisine from Madame Reid and Madame Trompeter, the French Club was ready to try some and they got the opportunity to in January at the Magic Pan. They also got to try their feet at ice skating. After the French food, they were ready to sample the cuisine from Germany and Spain as they did at the International Dinner in February.

The German Club attempts to familiarize its members with aspects of German culture not available during class. They have had parties in which they sample German food, play German games and listen to German music. Many members have participated in Tulsa's version of Germany's most famous festival, Oktoberfest, in addition to attending German films and concerts. Several students have competed in and won awards in various language contests. The German Club also provided tutors for those students in need of extra help.

Spanish club this year has been a big success starting off with over a hundred members. They had new officers with new ideas on how to make Spanish club fun and enjoyable for everyone.

Each month has been highlighted by at least one major activity. In October, the club had a hayride and a bonfire at the Allen Ranch in Bixby. They also went ice skating in November, had a Christmas party in December, went bowling in January, and had an International Dinner with the French and German clubs in February. Each of the activities has been a great success due to the outstanding cooperation and participation that all of the members have contributed. The club has had a great year and it would not have been a success without the ideas and guidance of sponsors, Mrs. Deuvall and Mrs. McCormack.

Notorious for Melody

Concert Choir has had several outstanding performances, the first of which was a combined program with the Jr. High during choir premiere week in November. The choir has many responsibilities throughout the year: Christmas Concert, Youth Arts week concert, State Contest, Baccalaureate, graduation exercises, and the final production for the choirs in the spring concert. Concert Choir gives every student an opportunity to perform in a choir.

The beautiful sound emanating from the sound end of the building before and after lunch comes from the Jazz Choir and Choralettes. It is an honor to be chosen to be in either one of Union's Show Choirs. The Choirs perform in concerts, for assemblies, at many Tulsa area civic and social functions, Tulsa area malls, and contest.

Music instruction at Union presents a balance between creative skills and academic needs. Talents rightly trained contribute immeasurably to the development of the individual and the enhancement of community welfare.

Controversy

Under the leadership of coach Holly Stewart in debate, the National Forensics League had several students become successful in competition.

Students learned how to do research on their own for competition as well as for other classes. They competed at different tournaments in the Tulsa area, neighboring cities and out of state.

Bringing home honors this year were: Jon Haner and Colin Clements, placed 2nd at Jenks in the Qualifying Division and 3rd at the University of Arkansas in the Championship Division; Colin Clements was a finalist in Qualifying Foreign Extemporaneous speaking, and was a finalist at Booker T. Washington in Qualifying Foreign Extemporaneous; Ben Clardy and Mark Welch placed 3rd at the University of Arkansas in Qualifying Debate.

Someone else's shoes

In an extremely hectic year, the Drama Department's performances ranged from a murder mystery to a musical. Ten Little Indians began the year with a touch of mystery; the next production, the comedy "Passionella" received a third-place award at a statewide contest.

Fifth and sixth hour drama classes were involved with much more, including a special children's show, a springtime spectacular, and a night of scenes and one-acts for Youth Arts Week. Of course, the annual all-school musical was performed. Babes in Arms showcased the talents of not only Mr. Nibbe's Drama Department, but also other members of the student body.

A chance to shine

After months of practice, our actors and actresses combined their talents to perform "Babes in Arms," a lavish all-school musical.

The popular play was about a group of young people who produced their own musical review. Set in the '50's, the characters must struggle with a megalomaniacal Broadway producer to get their show recognized.

Starring in the production were Celene Cahill, Tami Pip-pin, Gene Phillips, Jerold Anderson, and James Vannoy. After the standing ovation success of "Babes," Mr. Nibbe now prepares for next year's musical extravaganza, "Hello Dolly."

1. After singing "I Wish I were in Love Again," Kim Padgett and Greg Hoover act out the part. 2. As co-owners of the Sand and Surf playhouse, Tami Pippin and Jerold Anderson have a slight disagreement. 3. "This 'dressing room fun' has gone a bit too far," thinks Mark DeLozier. 4. The cast looks on as Celane Cahill and Gene Phillips perform. 5. Celane Cahill tells Gene Phillips that she is not a little girl anymore. 6. Getting ready for the performance is half the fun for Steve Sandoval and Angie Hall.

JUNIORS

we know how to live

Junior classes have basically been the same throughout the years, but the class of '86 altered the usual Union traditions. From the Powderpuff football game to the wall contest during homecoming week, the Juniors continuously proved that history doesn't always repeat itself. Through hard work and fun times, the Juniors showed their devotion and spirit for Union.

From calendars to Christmas catalogs, the Junior Board had numerous fundraisers for the prom. Led by Coach Bill Padgett and officers Danny Payne, Steve Overturf, Jill Onstott, and Andy Short, the Junior class subjected the school to buying anything that could possibly make money to use towards the prom. The strongest point of the Class of '86 is their sense of fun and celebration in all things that can be summed up in the following chant!

*Rockin', Slammin', Jammin', Pride.
That's what keeps us all alive
Having fun and lots of kicks,

we're on our way

Contrary to popular belief, the typical sophomore does not rush home after school to watch "The Flintstones." Instead one might find the typical sophomore attending an organizational meeting, practicing sports or music, cheerleading, doing homework or just hanging out. Under the leadership of Mrs. Arrowood and Mrs. Roberts; the sophomore class was very active in a variety of school functions during the year. For class funds they held a carwash and washed almost 1000 cars. They also sold carnations for Valentine's Day among other things.

At times it seemed that the juniors and seniors were unrelenting in their vocal attack against sophomores, but sophomore spirit was not dampened. Sophomore spirit could be seen and heard in readied form at pep assemblies, football and basketball games, wrestling events and even in the halls. Sophomore officers were Thad Bibb, president; Mark Welch, treasurer; Sally Moore, vice president; and Kirsten Lewellen, secretary.

A Wealth of Upbeat Signals

All Eyes on the Ball

Crack! The ball is hit! The spectators hold their breaths as the ball sails through the air. Sighs are released and cheers explode as the opponents' center fielder hits the fence trying to catch another out-of-the-park home run. The players jump out of the dugout and flood the home plate to welcome in the runner.

Long before the first game against Rogers on March 5, players and fans were anxiously awaiting the baseball season. As was promised, the season was successful with a record of 26 wins and 8 losses.

Both outstanding individuals and superb teamwork were responsible for this year's victorious season. We had some of the best players in the city all working toward the same goals. Senior Rick Vaughan was recognized by the Tulsa Tribune as Player of the Week in mid-season and All-City Pitcher of the Year. He also received commendation as Tulsa World All-Metro Large School Player of the Year. Brian Greif led the city with twelve home runs as well as making the Tribune All-City First Team with junior Mark Thompson and Rick Vaughan. Second baseman Jeff Ray and shortstop Mitch Payne qualified for the All-City second team. The Tulsa World selected Rick Vaughn and Brian Greif to play on the All-Metro First team and the Second team included Mitch Payne and Mark Thompson. The Redskins are very proud of all the individuals that sacrificed so much to bring the team so far.

Mark Thompson defies gravity to snare a fly ball.

Brian Greif shows the devastating power of his swing that made him "home-run king" of the metro area.

Varsity Bargirls: Julie Hecht, Christine Jones, Susan Schock, Cami Lewellen, Charise Hines.

The start of something big

Under the coaching of Tony Martray, the Junior Varsity baseball team had a successful year with an outstanding record of fifteen wins and five losses. The season started out strong and the team placed in both the Broken Arrow and Bixby tournaments. First baseman Chris Hoffarth, second baseman Steve Craig, catcher Randall Stockman, and outfielder Eric Witte made promising performances, contributing to a season everyone could be proud of.

1. Hurling the ball toward an unsuspecting batter, Tom Obrecht prepares for a victory. 2. Randall Stockman fights to snag the oncoming ball.

A taste of success

The 1984 Lady Redskins softball team had a terrific season this year. They played a 28 game schedule with a 17-11 overall record. The Lady Redskins didn't win their conference, but came back with an impressive District Championship. They advanced to the State Tournament by placing as Regional runner-up. In the State Tournament the Redskins took 3rd place. Individually, the Lady Redskins had some outstanding performances. Moni Johnson, Kim Cloud, and Nicci Simmons were honored by being named All-Conference. Susie Schock made All-District, and Coach Jones was chosen to coach the all-State team this summer. It's obvious that the team had an outstanding season full of tears and triumph.

1. Even though the heat is intense, Susie Schock is ready to make that final out. 2. Kim Cloud's winning determination shines through as she takes another base.

Shonn Davidson saves the day as she reaches to tag the opposing team member.

Superb setting

The volleyball program had a rough time this year, even though it was the school's fifth year to have a volleyball team. With only one returning senior starter, Tracy Moore, and three returning junior starters, Melanie Monteith, Lisa Gilbert, and Shannon Waggoner, and a brand new coach Ron Evans, the girls had a satisfying season.

The team might not have been thrilled with their record, but they were rewarded another way, one member, Melanie Monteith, was named an All-Conference player. All in all the girls had a good season. Their hard work and dedication is deeply appreciated.

Goal Tending

For the second year in a row, Union High School fielded both boys and girls varsity soccer teams. The 84-85 year was the first to include state sanctioned soccer, which means each team would be placed in its appropriate conference and district. Inexperience played a major role in the boys team because there were only four seniors and one junior and the rest underclassmen. There was also a boys junior varsity team which was composed of mostly freshmen and sophomores. Trying to follow in the footsteps of last year's city semi-finalists, the squad scored a 6-4 record and 3-2 in the district. The season turned out to be one of the best yet.

Season of content

This has basically been a "building" year for the tennis team. Although the team is made up mostly of junior high students, the high school members of the team have left their mark. The four upperclassmen, Seniors Brian Kane and Natalie Edmund and juniors Ken Camille and Gina Tener, all improved a great deal this year. Both Gina Tener and Natalie Edmund went to state in singles this year, capturing the first and second spots respectively. The two girls also teamed up to take first place in doubles. Senior Brian Kane teamed up with freshman Hal Fitzgerald to qualify for state as doubles. The team has had a rough year due to the tough schedule they had, but with the help of Coach Margie Mathews the team showed great determination.

1. Brian Kane, Ken Camille 2. Gina Tener, Natalie Edmund 3. Practicing her underhand swing Natalie Edmund works hard. 4. Ken Camille floats with joy after winning another tournament.

Trail of accomplishment

The golf team completed their most successful season ever, having a match record of 22-4. Union won their first tournament in the school's history, in a playoff with Broken Arrow, at the Ron Streck Invitational. With the senior leadership of Bruce Dieterlen and Doug Gower, and an assemblage of young talent, the team made great stride in becoming recognized as one of the finer teams in the state. The team also laid a foundation upon which to grow, in the first year with Sandy Hanlin at the helm.

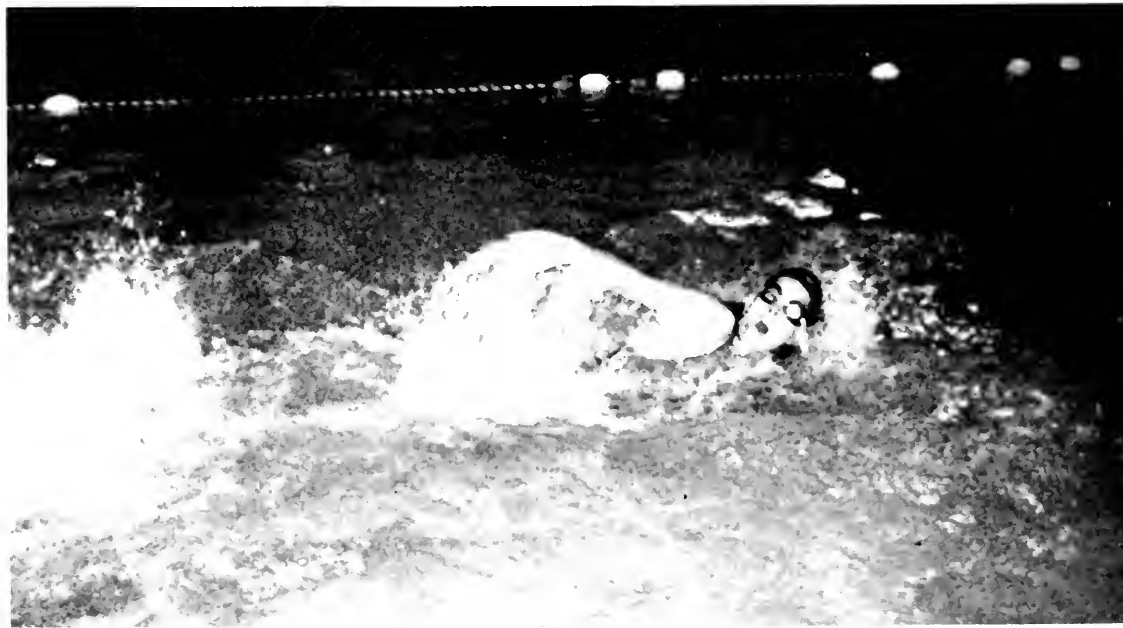

1. Front row: Shannon Pearson. Second row: Toni Tener, Jamie Cooper. Back row: Kim Harris. 2. Front row: Doug Gower, Eric Davis, Joe Colling, Danny Thompson. ## A splash of divine inspiration

At 5:30 a.m. while most students were still sleeping, members of the swim team were rigorously practicing under the instruction of the new coach, Kevin Koohney. The team, although young, did quite well this season competing against teams such as Hale, Memorial, Washington, and Webster. Even though no one qualified for the state meet, several came very close. They ended the season by taking third place in the Frontier Conference.

This year the gymnastics team has been led through a victorious year by Coach Natalie Warren. They have competed in various places including Bartlesville, Moore, Stillwater, Oklahoma City, and Tulsa. Competing against High School teams and also private clubs, the girls have had many opportunities to claim several victories. This year's class IV competitors were as follows: Tammy Harrell, Sarah Gaffke, Kelly Reibert, and Amy Pennix. The class III competitors included Heather Williams, Jodi Sparks, Julie James, Erin Shanahan, and Abby Joseph. Also, Kim Geis competed as a class II. Those who qualified for state included Tammy Harrell, Sarah Gaffke, Kelly Reibert, Amy Pennix, Julie James, Erin Shanahan who received fourth place on the uneven bars, and Kim Geis who received third on vault, fourth on bars, fifth on beam, fourth on floor, and fourth all-around. The accomplishment and dedication that was shown by the team greatly paid off.

Reflection of a winner

The girls track team had a successful year considering that they had a new team which consisted mostly of freshmen.

The team went to the North Eastern Oklahoma track meet and placed third overall. Also, the team placed second in the Frontier Conference.

The two-mile relay team, one of the biggest assets to the team was defeated only once and the team placed fourth at state. The relay team consisted of Cynthia Verner, Stacey Watson, Eimile Ryan, and Jaymie Mann.

The girls who qualified for state were Cynthia Verner, Julie Roberts, Stacey Watson, Jaymie Mann, Julie Stilwell, and Jody Simianer.

The team worked hard and became very close which helped them make their season challenging and triumphant.

The boys track team enjoyed its best season ever this year. They placed in the top three in every track meet they entered.

A lot of school records fell during the year. Vince Martin set a record in the long jump at 23 feet, 10 inches. Brian Corry set the school record for the 800 meter run at a time of 1:56.8. Tommy Keitges set the first in-state record in the shot put at 55 feet, 10 inches. The 3200 meter relay made up of Jimmy Lea, Karl Koehler, Marc Allen, and Brian Corry also set a new record of 7:57.96.

Marc Allen went on to be a state champion in the mile as well as Tommy Keitges in the shot put. The team showed great determination and team effort in perfecting their season.

Julie Roberts makes her daily run getting ready for the state tournament.

Living on that creative edge

Art Club grew in numbers as well as achievements this past year. Being the most enthusiastic group in years, the kids started out the year by painting the windows at McDonald's at 51st and Memorial and having a big Halloween and Christmas party. Some of the seniors enjoyed creating monthly designs for Paschal Carpet Company featuring their fuzzy mascot, Rascal. Each of the designs chosen for newsletters were awarded ten dollars a piece to the artists.

The top art students also entered several competitions with excellent results. The Tulsa University competition awarded Ines Westphal with a $2100 scholarship. Young Talent in Oklahoma accepted Frankie Leslie as one of the top ten art students in the state, and Connie Powell's painting was chosen to hang in the capitol building. Ines Westphal and Tautia Robbs works were also accepted.

Fundraising was unique without candy sales this year, so Art Club sold posters for Florafax, featuring Union students. The posters were published across the U.S. Art Club ended the year with the annual Union Arts and Crafts Fair and celebrated a great year.

It looks like Derek Park finally reached in second grade with a not graphic design and set.

Writing off the wall

Grueling deadlines. Forceful writing. Liberal opinions. These are but everyday factors in the intense life of a Union Journalist.

Under the leadership of a new adviser, Phyllis Dolence, and a new editor, Jon Morano, the Union Voice underwent many changes. Only four issues were published, but what the paper lacked in quantity it made up for in quality. The '84-'85 Voice was perhaps the most intriguingly radical volume ever. From sophomores to school policies, no subject was sacred to the Voice's crack staff of award-winning journalists.

During the rare moments when the staff wasn't working on the newspaper, they were involved in two journalistic societies, the Oklahoma Interscholastic Press Association and the Quill and Scroll. Also, the stress that can be induced by hurried deadlines and writer's cramp was relieved by periodic parties. The journalism staff also organized Union's third talent show.

This year the Voice kept up its tradition of chronicling the year's events in a colorful, interesting way. The staff had to work long, hard hours before and after school but enjoyed doing it and would like to thank everyone who helped make the Voice the rousing success it was.

Looking into the past

The History Club is an organization in which students are given the opportunity to voice their opinions on any subject they wish. It is a club united by the members' common interest in history and current events. The club meets about once a week to discuss future plans and activities. Often, the club meets at a member's house for a large get-together. Visiting a nearby museum has become an interest for the club. All-in-all, the History Club is a free-speaking organization on the move.

Discovering a chemical bond

The Science Club, sponsored by Dr. Mel Whittington, attempted to utilize our new science facility by providing a challenging program for students with scientific interests. Through field trips, guest speakings and lab work, Dr. Whittington attempts to make students more aware of a field that is constantly changing. In Science Club, students are able to share with others their knowledge and experiences. By broadening their horizons and taking advantage of the latest scientific equipment, young Union scientists are preparing to be the technological geniuses of tomorrow.

Keying into Personal Success

Key Club, an active organization in our school and community, started off the year with record attendance. Enthusiasm and participation enabled Key Club to build and paint 25 bowling ramps for handicapped people to use. They took the ramps and donated them to the Special Olympics. With the help of over 100 members, special olympics was a success.

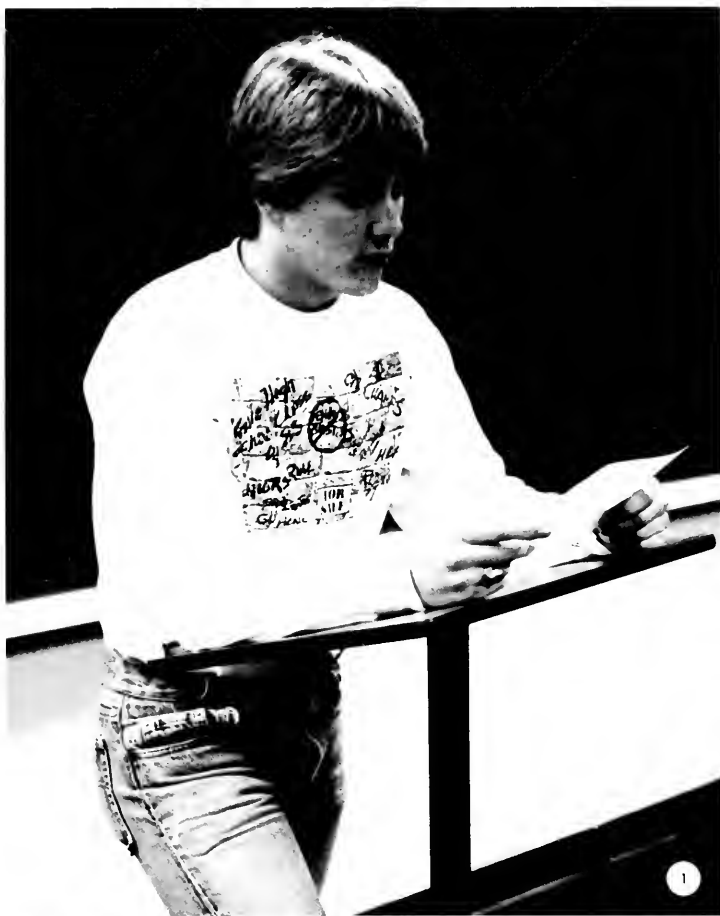

Over Christmas, Key Clubbers volunteered their time and help to the Kiwanis Club working with Santa Claus at Southroads Mall.

Key Club has also aided Tulsa Speech and Hearing with the fund-raiser "Super Sunday." Union's Key Club helped from serving soup to bussing tables.

All this work was rewarded at the annual Key Club Convention in Ft. Worth, Texas, April 25-27.

Controlling the shape of the future

Our student council completed a year of both important public services and diverting schooltime activities.

Following the ratification of their constitution, the council became a member of the Oklahoma Student Council Association, and two delegates journeyed to the state convention. Members also attended a basic workshop where various leadership skills were taught.

A massive paper drive sponsored by the student council provided needed funds, and at the same time, tidied-up the wastes of the city. Spirit chains sold by the council brightened the school walls during homecoming.

The year wound up with the annual Wacky Olympics, a festive tribute to the carefree days of the Greek Olympiad.

From the Wacky Olympics to the Tulsa paper drive, our student council completed a year of success.

An arresting gallery of people Idiocy and more

The spirit of the olympiad was resurrected at Union in the form of the annual Wacky Olympics. Participants trained for weeks in hope of obtaining the coveted title of olympic champion.

Although popular events like synchronized swimming and the javelin throw were not included in the contest, sophisticated entries provided joyous entertainment to the packed stadium. Entries like the wheelbarrow race and the water balloon toss added to the day's culture.

Putting the sophomores, juniors, seniors and faculty against each other the olympics resulted in fierce competition and some horrible injuries. The shoe pile game ended up in chaos as players hobbled aimlessly in search of their footwear. Food was popular in the games this year, the lemon toss and the egg break proved that foodfights weren't out of style.

The big surprise of the event was the tug-of-war. The juniors and seniors fell to the strength of the overweight sophomore team.

Another great surprise was the final result; the teachers, otherwise known as the Mingo Mob, had won. Despite the fact that the scorers were also teachers, everyone agreed that the games were spectacular.

1. Seniors run on to the field prepared to chase off the competition, but lose anyway. 2. Juniors show that their spirit is sky-high at the Wacky Olympics. 3. Overly excited Wacky Olympics torch bearer Senior Scott Witte runs the field for the opening ceremony.

SENIORS

it's our time to dream

When we were sophomores we dreamed of being a senior. Being a senior seemed like the highest honor in the world. Now, after years of waiting our senior year finally came. We got to share in such notorious activities as Senior Pride Week, the Senior Christmas Semi-Formal, the prom and decorating the school. Our Senior officers (pictured at right) were Tami Pippin, Shelley Phillips, Bruce Dieterlen, and Tim Gray.

Yet in the midst of all the fun and excitement there was a little fear in every senior. We feared the reality of facing the world. We were scared of independence. Most of all, we were afraid to grow up.

But before we realized it, graduation was here, and though we still have a lot of growing to do, we can face the future with confidence and look to the past with fond memories. OUR senior year was the best!

Daring to do more

Academic talents come naturally to some; others have to work hard for the honors they receive. Regardless of whether the road was rough or smooth academic accomplishments are something of which to be proud. Union has a fine tradition in academics and this year was no exception.

Based on their performance on the PSAT, eight students qualified as Commended National Merit Scholars. Five qualified as semi-finalists and all went on to become finalists. Three students maintained a four point grade point average through four years of high school and one met the requirements for salutatorian, making only one B in four years.

Many sacrifices were made by these students. Activities were missed and midnight oil was burnt to achieve these honors. To be the best at anything is a challenge few can meet. Fortunately, some do. For them — victory is sweetest.

All our best in a week

Before receiving their eagerly-anticipated diplomas, students from the Class of '85 were treated to a special week jam-packed with excitement.

As always, the senior float-trip kicked off the festival. Seniors boarded canoes or anything else that floated and traveled down the Illinois River. Of course, the trip's highlights were the lovely scenery and nature-filled environment.

A Saturday morning tea was held for the senior girls; they celebrated the event by posting their mothers' senior portraits on the walls. More food and drink was served at the senior picnic. At the picnic site, students played softball, threw frisbees, and rested up for other activities.

Days before graduation, seniors congregated for the annual breakfast followed by the senior assembly. At the distinguished Harvard Club, students reminisced about grades K through 12 and received an elegant gourmet meal, although most didn't even know which fork to use. The assembly ended with the slide show that summed up the year in pictures.

After the assembly, seniors left the school forever. But none will forget the memories and magic of Union — no matter how hard they try.

1. Chris Humes and Shay Braun portray two geeks in a senior assembly skit. 2. Mike Gibson takes a breather under a shady tree after a tough game of softball.

Mark Allen and Neal Hope finish off their hearty breakfast with a nice glass of orange juice.

1. At the senior picnic Todd Owsley, Todd Talbert, and Darren Johnston get ready to enjoy their steaks and potatoes. 2. Dawna Price and her mom indulge in some munchies after the entertainment at the senior tea.

It may be over but there's more to come

In August no senior thought May 22 would ever arrive. By spring break, though, the days were counted and senioritis took its toll on everyone. The long awaited magic night finally rolled around along with some spring showers that didn't damper anyone's spirits.

Prior to the processional, seniors primped and were told to erase writing from the back of their mortarboards. Baron Blakely mysteriously lost his in the parking lot, but it was recovered and a minor crisis was averted.

During the ceremony seniors listened to the soft voiced Georgia drawl of speaker Tommy Todd, President of the United States Jaycees.

After receiving their diplomas, there was an attempt to sing "Happy Trails" and then it was out of Mabec Center and on with life.

1. Some faculty members were surprised that Phuc Nguyen made it! 2. Anke Schnapper, exchange student from Germany, stands to be recognized. 3. Kelli Middaugh, Chrissy Grounds, Lynne Lund, and Terrie Geron wait to get in the procession line. 4. Jamie Mahoney gives Cassie Temme some help with her cap. 5. Kim Barnfield shows Lisa Waites how to fix her collar. 6. Carrie McDowell receives her diploma from Dr. Jarman. 7. Baron Blakley explains to Mrs. Yates how he lost his cap on his way in from the parking lot.

SUMMER

Section Editor: Rachel Hula
 Staff: Michelle Norvel, Nora Orsini, Susan Querry

A Season Complete

Throughout the four seasons, yearbook staff members agonized over everything from last-minute deadlines to the horrendous wrath of Mrs. Finley. During all the chaos normally associated with yearbook class, the Redskin staff discovered a few things about life and also about themselves.

Seniors in the class gave this book its soul; sophomores made Finley coffee, talked a lot, but were still fun to have around. Deadlines were as always a major problem; Editor Michael O'Neill found that the threat of an 'F' in yearbook class convinced everyone to turn in their copy on time. Those who couldn't meet deadline were inspired by Jon Morano's heart-wrenching tales of life in the fast-paced newspaper business.

Spring-section Editor Kristy Duffy found that losing all of the track pictures is not a good idea. Rachel Hula, editor of the summer-section, found that first hour is a great time to put on makeup and have crises.

Winter Editor Connie Powell found that in-house suspension is the result of 35 tardies, and Lorine Greeno told Hawaiian stories to enchant staff members.

The juniors in the class were taught the important aspects of yearbook production. But John Stratman and Steve Ellig attended class at Grandy's and Quicktrip. Kristin Adams drew dummy layouts all year, while Pam Carr realized she'd better give up photography.

Sophomores Michelle Norvel and Jennifer Turner learned to type and take orders so they can lead the next generation of yearbook editors.

During fall, winter, spring, and summer, Mrs. Finley came to the rescue when everything that could go wrong . . . did. Together, this group of people assembled the '85 Redskin with guts, determination, and a little old-fashioned elbow grease. We only hope that it's always as much fun to read as it was to put together.

1. John Stratman, Kristy Duffy, and Steve Ellig enjoying their trip to the yearbook plant in Dallas, Texas. 2. Mrs. Finley directs the class.

1. Michaela O'Neill with her camera (as usual) 2. The sophomores and juniors sing to the seniors 3. Front row: Michaela O'Neill, Steve Ellig Second row: Jon Morano, Heather Chaffin, Missy Cain, Jennifer Turner, Leah Fagundes, Susan Querry, Kristy Dutton, Rachel Hula, Lorine Greeno Third row: Kristin Adams, Dana Hamblin, Pam Carr, John Stratman, Kim Hoos, Michelle Norvel Back row: Jane Finley, Nora Orsini

A.K.A. Nerd Bowl

1985 marked the first season of a sport that is certain to become an institution here at Union, the Academic Bowl. Under the spiritual guidance of the illustrious Mike Weaver and Ed Keeney, the team, affectionately dubbed the Nerd Bowlers, embarked on what proved to be a triumphant year indeed. After months of exhausting preparation, the team set out to conquer all that stood in their path. Garbed in their ever-fashionable Nerd Bowl blazers, the Academians rallied to a first place victory at Rogers State College before going on to compete at Oklahoma State University. Due to the phenomenal success of the fledgling scholars, they were invited to the national competition in Dallas, Texas. The intellectual stimulation, the camaraderie, all will make it possible for the learned Nerd Bowlers to look on this year with fondness and affection.

1. "Coach" Ed Keeney gives instructions before competition. 2. Mr. Ed Keeney, Mr. Weaver, and Andy Short discuss strategies. 3. Team Members Doug Collins, William Pilgrim, Kevin Conley, and Andy Short in action.

Lip-sync comes alive

"Puttin' on the Hits," a lip-sync concert sponsored by the juniors, showcased the musical entertainers of tomorrow. Cultural artists Julio Iglesias and Willie Nelson, played by Troy Donnell and Alton Haney, made all of Union weep to "All the Girls I've Loved Before." The hardcore punk of Black Flag had students slumming in the aisles, while Vince Martin's portrayal of Michael Jackson brought the house down. Although none of the performers could actually sing, all showed promise of one day becoming a professional air-band.

1. No, it's not a Pepsi commercial; it's Vince Martin "Puttin' on the Hits." 2. David Salyer and Danny Payne say "Relax." 3. Amy Wilson and Reggie Young bop on stage.

Let the good times
roll

1. Travis Hulse takes a break at a softball game. 2. Anke Schnapper is going for the goal in donkey basketball. 3. Michael Black does some spring cleaning before school is out.

1. Michael Martin plays frisbee at the senior picnic 2. Randall Brown plays a joke on Mr. Davidson. 3. Shana Birkes finds her car shoe-polished after school.

Reminders and Reminiscences

1. Carol Hayden tries to ignore Sean Downes and Bobby Ferreira. 2. Lori Hopper finds that Kevin Conly's shorts are too short. 3. Jeff Graefe slides in for a home run in a friendly softball game.

COLOPHON

Seasons blend together and another year comes to a close. This "seasonal" yearbook is brought to you by the eighteen members of the 1985 REDSKIN staff. 1,000 copies were printed by Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas.

The 224 page book is printed in black ink on 80 lb. enamel paper with 16 pages of four-color. Headlines were printed in Garamond and Palatino Italic in various point sizes. Body copy is 10 pt. Garamond and picture captions are 8 pt. Garamond.

The cover is red facricoid with smythe binding. The grain is Cordova and each copy was hand rubbed with black ink. All printing is blind embossed with the Renegade (drawn by Connie Powell) covered in gold metalique.

Because producing the finest possible yearbook requires skills beyond those of the staff, we found it necessary to call upon the services of individuals whose contributions to this book were indispensable. The adviser would like to personally thank Ms. Megan O'Hallocan. The staff extends our deepest, sincere gratitude to . . .

Les Petersen and the staff of Petersen's Photography for photographing and processing the senior portraits, royalty and other special events.

Jim Williams of the Broken Arrow Ledger for his excellent sports photographs.

Enterprise School photos for photographing the underclassmen.

DeWayne Wilkerson, district photographer, for the use of his darkroom and printing.

The faculty and staff for their cooperation in helping the staff meet deadlines.

All the students and sponsors who helped the staff by writing copy and identifying photographs.

Mike Weaver — this spud's for you!

Terye Myers and Phil Baum of Taylor Publishing for showing us the slopes (oops! ropes). We wouldn't have made it without you!
